HALLO! No, that is not a typo. That is how you say hello in German. What a great time and learning experience we had in Hamburg at the International Convention. Now I am certain you are all sitting on the edge of your seats wanting to know what we learned and probably most importantly; was the beer really warm?

Well, let me talk about the cultural stuff. The beer and other soft drinks were cool but not cold. Not like the rocky mountains ice cold around here anyway. Ice was available, if you asked, but it was not customary in any of their drinks. And if you did ask for it, four small hollow cubes was about the average for a serving. Yes, their brats and sausages are really better. Pancakes are dang nigh impossible to find as they prefer crepes. Most residents were bi-lingual but a lot were not. And, the buses were packed everyday with thousands of Lions on their way to the outstanding convention center. See all smiling faces? Yeah, that bus would only be considered half full! Buses were not considered full unless the people helping load the buses had to literally push a couple of people behind the caution lines to get the door closed!

It is a very energy conscious county, so in Hamburg there were as many bicyclists as there were motor cars. The bikers have a special path from the walkers and is a slightly different color. I can tell you that the bikers definitely have the right-of-way and you had better be on the walking path! They even have special lights on their traffic signals for the pedestrians and cyclists. At least 95% of the cars are smart cars or something very similar. Since the majority of cars are so small, they tend to park everywhere, sidewalks and what have you. Ice cream and coffee are extremely popular and you can see an ice cream stand and a Starbucks on about every corner. I was in heaven! Now I am not quite sure how this falls into energy conservation but our hotel, with 22 stories of rooms and a good sized convention center connected to it, did not have any dressers; so therefore, no drawers! Oh, and no ice vending machines. Other than that, it was a beautiful city with lots of sites to see and an outstanding experience at the convention.

On the way home, we got delayed in Atlanta airport due to storms. There was a family of four sitting across from us that was on the same flight and they were depending on us to tell them when the flight was leaving as the departure time kept changing. The flight finally cancelled about 5 or 6 hours later at about 10:30 pm. I am not sure what country they were from but they spoke no English whatsoever and their dialect was a Spanish mix. I knew enough Spanish to tell them the time changes and that the flight was cancelled, but then I was lost. I tried to bring up the translator on my phone but the battery was too low. I am guessing they may have been from Brazil or somewhere in South America. They had two small boys about ages 9 and 7 and I assumed they had little money as they all shared a candy bar at supper time. I could see the panic in the mother's eyes as she looked at me and indicated they did not know what to do. We did the only thing we thought we could do and led them to the re-ticketing booth.

As we were standing in line waiting to get re-ticketed, we struck up a conversation with another couple behind us and found out that they were just returning from Uruguay. They were coming to see their daughter that was going to college in the States. About 1/2 hour later, I noticed that the family of four from earlier was at the ticket counter and was not able to communicate with the airline agents due to the language barrier. The mother was almost in tears because they could not understand what they needed to do. I turned and asked loudly if there was anyone in line that was bi-lingual in Spanish. As it turned out, the couple we had talked to earlier was and they went up to help. The only thing I overheard was their rescheduled flight was not leaving until 2pm the next afternoon and they had no place to stay and very little money. Unfortunately, the airline was not offering any compensation for a hotel.

The couple from Uruguay that helped them at the counter, literally took the mother's hand and led the family away. I can only assume, by what little I could understand, that these gracious strangers helped them get settled for the night and helped them get to their flight the next day.

It is always inspiring and humbling to experience first hand the compassion of others; even with strangers. These extraordinary small events leave a positive impact in our lives and hearts that stay with us forever. You must imagine how your compassion and service impacts the lives of others, even if you don't get to see it first-hand. It can never be said enough, people may not remember what you said or did but they will always remember how you made them feel.

As we look forward to increasing our members to serve, just remember this, most people want to help. Even strangers! All we have to do is ask. Let us broaden our ability to serve by just asking and fly forward with vision.

Lions, lassen Sie uns brüllen! Lions, let us Roar! DG Connie

“IT’S TIME TO SHARPEN THE AX”

Words from 1st VDG Glenn Swanson
Maple City Lions

As the story goes, there was a young man looking for a job in a logging camp. He showed up one Monday morning with a new ax and ready for work. The foreman gave him a week to prove himself worthy of the job. On Monday, he showed up early and cut twice as much wood as the other men in camp. Tuesday, he again came early and cut more wood than anyone else, but not as much as on Monday. Wednesday, he was early to arrive and worked just as hard but cut only as much wood as the other workers. Thursday, he eagerly arrived early and worked late but his production was less than the other workers. Friday came and he again showed up early and worked hard but his production was the worst of the week. The foreman had to fire him.

The moral to this story is that no matter how hard you work, you must continue to sharpen your ax! Starting a new year with new leadership in Lionism, it is time for all lions in 25A to “sharpen the ax”. Our goals never really change but in order to grow, we must always be thinking of new ideas. We Serve!

Let's think of some new activities and look at fundraising as opportunities to help Local, State and International projects to flourish in 2013-14. With D.G. Connie and her “trusty side-kick”, P.D.G. Kevin behind the wheel, “let's make this a year to remember in our District 25A.

This year, IP Barry wants us to focus on making our clubs stronger, more effective, and more satisfying for our members. To do this, he will be sharing valuable information and resources with club presidents throughout his term. He will also be asking for your help in working closely with your clubs. He is requesting that you check out the new membership recruiting guide, Just Ask! Always keep in mind that women make great Lions. His dream is that together, we can help clubs achieve new levels of success!

The Just Ask! New Member Recruiting Guide for Clubs is designed to help your club recruit new members. It gives your club the tools to create and implement a growth plan that's right for you. New members can help achieve your service goals, bring fresh ideas to the club, and ensure club health.

Inviting new members is something that every Lion can do. Because there are a lot of people out there—like I was—just waiting to be asked.

Download Just Ask! and share it at your next club meeting

He is asking you to invite Leos and local youth to organize and carry out a service project. It could benefit a school, community center, hospital or area seniors. LCI offers planning guides, project ideas and flyers to rally your members and get youth involved. When you involve youth in service, you play an important role in shaping the next generation of volunteers, leaders, and Lions.

Resources of Engaging Our Youth include a press release, call to action flyer, planning guide and many project ideas.

How do I ask someone to become a Lion?

Question: Would You Like to Belong to Lions?

Answer: Yes

Great! -Give them an application and invite them to your next meeting.

Question: Would You be interested in joining Lions?

Answer: What is it? Or Who are They?

- Lions are the largest service organization in the world.
- We are 1.35 million members in 208 countries
- We serve our communities
- We develop leader and offer leadership opportunities

That is all it takes to get it started. Just asking will start the conversation. If you wear your pin at all times, when you can, quite often that will peak someone's interest and they will ask you what it is. Start from there. Well, it is a Lion's pin you see. We are the largest service organization in the world with over 1.35 members in 207 countries. We serve our communities and develop leaders and offer leadership opportunities. Are you interested in joining?

Diabetes Research is personal for Riley Hospital investigator, former Riley kid

Lions of Indiana helps fund pediatric diabetes research equipment

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (June 17, 2013) – Patrick Fueger, Ph.D., spends his days in the lab connected to Riley Hospital for Children at Indiana University Health searching for new ways to treat diabetes. The work is personal. Dr. Fueger is a former Riley kid who has had type 1 diabetes since childhood. “Rather than letting diabetes take control of me, I decided to fight against it by conducting scientific research aimed at curing diabetes,” says Dr. Fueger.

Dr. Fueger and his team have recently published three papers about their work involving a so-called “molecular brake” called Mig6, which prevents insulin-secreting beta cells in the pancreas from growing. In an article in Molecular Endocrinology, Dr. Fueger’s team proposes that by blocking Mig6, it may be possible to save beta cells and delay or prevent the onset of diabetes. More research is needed.

Lions Club International Foundation (LCIF) and Lions of Indiana recognize the need for additional pediatric research dollars. The organizations have donated $15,000 to Riley Children’s Foundation in support of critical medical equipment to further pediatric diabetes research at Riley Hospital for Children.

“There continues to be an increase in the number of new cases of diabetes. We felt it was time to make another contribution to diabetes research at Riley Hospital in hopes it could accelerate a cure,” said Dan Richison, Indiana Lions Diabetes Awareness Committee Chair. “We are driven by our community service mindset. Our motto is ‘We Serve.’”

The Pediatrics Diabetes Clinic at Riley Hospital provides care for more than 1,800 children. More than 100 diabetes patients are seen each week at Riley Hospital and its regional clinics. The clinic is dedicated to providing state of the art care and treatment for patients, including the latest therapeutic alternatives. The clinic has implemented community outreach initiatives to help with education and training of individuals and regional school personnel about diabetes.

About Riley Children’s Foundation

Riley Children’s Foundation supports Riley Hospital for Children, Camp Riley and the James Whitcomb Riley Museum Home. As Indiana’s only comprehensive children’s hospital, Riley Hospital has provided compassionate care, support and comfort to children and their families since 1924. Each year children from all 92 Indiana counties turn to Riley Hospital and its regional clinics more than 230,000 times as well as an additional 100,000 times in clinics and hospitals staffed by Riley physicians throughout the state. The mission of the Lions Club is to empower volunteers to serve their communities, meet humanitarian needs, encourage peace and promote an international understanding through Lions clubs. ## The Indiana Lions Foundation desperately needs your help!

There are still a number of shifts open each day at the State Fair. As you may know, this is the Foundations largest fundraising activity of the year. Each of our districts has clubs which have been the beneficiaries of the Foundations good works.

Now is the time to help out!

PCC Bob Booher, PDG Bob Howard, and Lion Jean Howard are at the fair for seventeen days straight. PCC Bob and PDG Bob have had to work a number of shifts because no one was available. This makes for very long days.

You are the ones who know your clubs and those Lions who may be able to work at least one shift. Please pick up the phone, make some calls, and fill the roster.

The AM shift begins at 7:30 (be at the fair by 7:00 to catch the shuttle) and ends at about 3:00. The afternoon shift begins at 2:00, and ends around 9:30. You should be able to catch the afternoon shuttle at 1:30.

THIS IS OUR FOUNDATION. PLEASE DO WHAT YOU CAN TO HELP. THEY NEED HELP ALMOST EVERY DAY FOR THE NEXT 13 DAYS!

It would be easiest to call Jean Howard, and see what is available to schedule your time to work. Her cell phone number is: (260) 243-1281. You can also call PCC Bob Booher at (317) 435-0139.
